CONFERENCE DESCRIPTION

Extraordinary changes are taking place in women's health care today. Driven by scientific evidence, healthcare professionals understand that treating the body alone is not enough, and that the human mind and resources outside the realm of allopathic medicine can also play a critical role in preventative care and the healing process.

Over 45% of Americans today use various choices of alternative health care, and the number among women is even higher. Health care professionals need to identify the safety, efficacy, and potential benefits or risks of the alternatives their patients are using.

Our 11th Annual Conference on Integrative Medicine in Women's Health Care is designed to take an in-depth look at a variety of complementary alternative treatment modalities, and provide mainstream medical and nursing professionals with evidence-based data for some of the health care practices used by and for the female patient.

Topics in this year's conference have been selected based on extensive target audience needs assessment data, including clinical expert input, online needs assessment surveys, and past participant stated needs.

An outstanding faculty has been selected based on their individual areas of expertise, their ability to communicate practical, evidence-based knowledge to others, their commitment to address issues of current concern, and their willingness to interact with participants.

This exciting conference will provide you with an opportunity to share issues in this subject with colleagues from across the country in the stimulating, relaxing, and informal environment of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

After participating in this conference, you should have an increased knowledge of and be more competent to...

- Describe the principles of traditional Yoga, Chinese Medicine and Energy/Healing Touch therapies;
- Evaluate the use of various integrative approaches to pain management, thyroid issues and adrenal fatigue;
- Define the term "bio-identical" with respect to hormones; describe effects of oral and non-oral estrogen delivery, and know the difference between progesterone and synthetic progestin;
- Describe non-pharmacologic management techniques for cardiovascular disease;
- Differentiate between benefits or potential risks of various foods and herbal supplements;
- Recognize potential benefits of meditation, guided imagery, and healing touch & energy therapies.

CONFERENCE LOCATION

Nestled in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, Santa Fe is unlike any other place in the world, where sights, sounds and aromas of the Southwest join to ignite the senses. It is the blending of three unique histories and cultures – Hispanic, Anglo and Native American – that give the city an allure all its own.

Our conference resort, the Inn & Spa at Loretto, is at the end of the historic “Santa Fe Trail” and is centrally located within walking distance of Santa Fe “Plaza,” home to many wonderful restaurants, theatres and boutiques. The Plaza also boasts more art galleries per capita than either New York or Los Angeles.

The Inn & Spa at Loretto features a full-service spa, outdoor pool, casual & fine dining, three art galleries and a beautiful and tranquil garden scented by lavender and sage.

You are sure to enjoy this beautiful resort, as well as the many attractions of Santa Fe, during your participation in this 11th Annual Conference on Integrative Medicine in Women's Health Care.
